Brad,

Per your request for information on the number and types of microchip scanners used by this Department, the following information is forwarded for your review. The Department of Animal Services does not maintain an inventory of microchip scanners for any of the criteria requested in your letter. Additionally, no inventory exists for scanners located at each of its six shelters. Scanners are provided as part of the microchip contract. Whenever a scanner becomes inoperative, a replacement scanner is obtained from the microchip provider.

If you have any other questions or require additional information regarding the Department, please contact me.

Thank you,

Ross Pool, MA II
Department of Animal Services
